BLOCKCHAIN TRADING

INTRODUCTION

In recent years, there has been a lot of buzz around blockchain technology. Many companies are pouring investments into blockchain trading and technology.

Since 2009, the bitcoin global cryptocurrency platform has popularised blockchain, which is fundamentally a decentralised and distributed ledger technology. Blockchains have a wide range of possible applications that include cryptocurrency, blockchain technologies, and distributed consensus.

At a basic level, anyone who is involved in developing blockchain technology can be tagged as a blockchain developer. In fact, according to a CNBC report, the demand for blockchain professionals has increased so much that companies are willing to pay them between $150,000 and $175,000 per year.
